

Dayna Flory Interiors, with Patrick Dyke Collaborative | 1ST

A his-and-hers study was the inspiration for this home office. The partner's desk allows the couple to use the space together, while providing enough room for each to work on their individual tasks. The desk is a custom design, made locally from faux leather and finished with large brass nail heads. The custom black lacquered built-in provides ample display space for keepsakes, and the Strada pendant is a statement light fixture that provides an immense amount of task lighting. The tribal rug and stretched leather desk chairs add an earthy element.

Rariden | 2ND
 Schumacher Mio

Heller & Associates Design + Build, | 3RD
 with Carrie Long Interiors